

Community Mentoring Programme

Could you help a young person to realise their full potential?

Raising Aspirations matches volunteer mentors with students from Crispin School, Street. It encourages students to develop their self-belief and aspirations. Commitment is approximately one hour a month during term-time.

Proven Impact

Independent evaluation has shown that students taking part in raising aspirations have experienced better outcomes including improved GCSE results.

Benefits to mentors

Mentors receive training before the start of the programme and ongoing support during the mentoring period. The 'GROW' coaching model used within the programme can also benefit businesses and community groups.

"My mentor helps me to be more confident in myself...tells me to keep my head up high."

"It is a new challenge coaching people so young, but there will be personal reward if you can make a helpful contribution to the development of the young student you are mentoring."
